Question-based literature review strategy

What is the problem?
“Kids shouldn’t be allowed to wander the streets after dark, getting into trouble.”

What is the question?
“Do curfews prevent juvenile crime?”

What are the question’s concepts?
1: juvenile crime prevention  2: curfews

The use of the question to help determine your research path is called a question based literature review strategy. It boils down to 3 points—what is the problem, what is the question you get from this problem, and then what are the question’s concepts. So with our problem of ... We can develop the question .... Which gives us two main concepts ......